CREATING A ROADMAP

	FALL	SPRING	SUMMER
18/19
19/20

PLANNING TIPS

- Take a class you are really interested in
- Take a class with a professor you really like
- Add a skills or writing class so you don't have 5 exams
- Get out there and do an externship
- Consider the flat rate tuition
- Take a bar-tested course each semester – don't leave them for the end
- Your class has different requirements from those who started before 2015, so advice from upper level students may not always be accurate.

A WORD ABOUT THE UBE

Statement from the Maryland Bar Examiners:

On November 20, 2017, the Court of Appeals of Maryland announced that it has accepted the recommendation of its Advisory Committee that Maryland adopt the Uniform Bar Examination (UBE). The State Board of Law Examiners has begun work on making this transition but expects to maintain the current format and subject matter of the Maryland General Bar Examination until at least July 2019. Further information on Maryland's transition to the UBE, including the expected date of Maryland's first UBE administration and the date when Maryland expects to begin to accepting UBE transfer applications will be posted as it becomes available. The Court of Appeals statement regarding adoption of the UBE may be found HERE.

So, please note:

The course planning guide will be updated this spring with our best estimations of the implementation of UBE subjects with known faculty resources. We will continue to address the UBE course offering information as details are provided by the Maryland Bar Examiners and faculty resources are defined.
