

Arion Alston has a B.A. in English from the University of California at Berkeley and an M.F.A. from Wayne State University. He is a Truancy Court Program Mentor at three Baltimore City and two Anne Arundel County schools, where he runs weekly character-building sessions. He has taught theater at Central Michigan University, Marymount Manhattan University and Loyola University, Maryland. He is also a professional actor.

Barbara Babb has a B.S. from Pennsylvania State University and an M.S. and J.D. from Cornell University. She is the Director of CFCC and an Associate Professor of Law at the University of Baltimore School of Law. She teaches in the family law area, including the CFCC Student Fellows Program. She has been a national leader in family justice system reform, focusing on the creation of unified family courts. She has several years of experience practicing family law before joining academia.

Andrea Bento has a B.A. from the University of Maryland, College Park and a J.D. from Harvard Law School. She is the Truancy Court Program Manager and School Liaison. In this capacity, she collaborates with the Baltimore City Public Schools and the District and Circuit Courts for Baltimore City to operate the TCP in six schools. She also strategizes ways to expand into additional Maryland counties. She has been an intern at the Massachusetts Department of Education's Legal Office.

Sharon Curley has an A.A.S. Degree from Villa Julie College (now Stevenson University) and a Paralegal Certificate from the University of Maryland, University College. She is CFCC's Program Administrative Specialist and manages the financial, human resources, procurement, and other operational aspects of the TCP. She has worked as a legal administrative assistant at a financial firm.

Gloria Danziger has B.A. from London University, an M.Phil. from Oxford University, and a J.D. from Georgetown University Law Center. She is a Senior Fellow at CFCC and oversees the operation and expansion of the TCP. She has been the staff director at the American Bar Association Standing Committee on Substance Abuse, focusing on how substance abuse/truancy are addressed in the justice system, and she also has been a public policy consultant, reporter and editor.

Dana Gerald has a B.A. in Sociology from Morgan State University and is working toward an M.A. in Human Services Administration at the University of Baltimore. She is a Truancy Court Program Coordinator and manages the Montgomery County TCP in two schools. She is also the Educational Liaison for the Office of the Public Defender, Juvenile Court Division. She has spent over seven years as a case management specialist/probation officer for the Department of Juvenile Services.

Anthony “Bubba” Green has a Bachelor’s Degree from North Carolina State University. He is the Truancy Court Program Mentor Coordinator. In this capacity, he trains TCP mentors, plays a central role in TCP outreach and trainings, and runs weekly character-building sessions in five Baltimore City schools. He has been a PAL/REC coordinator for Baltimore County and a Foster Care Family Recruiter for the Arrow Project. Mr. Green has played professional football for the Baltimore Colts and has coached football at Morgan State University for 10 years.

Mimi Lumeh has a B.A. from the University of Richmond and an M.A. from the University of Baltimore. As CFCC’s Administrative Assistant, she helps CFCC staff with public events, reports, documentation and other projects, including updates to the CFCC Web site. She has worked as a public affairs assistant with the Court Information Office (now called the Office of Communications and Public Affairs) in Annapolis, Maryland.

Renee McElroy has a B.S. in Psychology from the University of Maryland, University College, an M.S. in Human Services/Counseling Studies from Capella University, and is pursuing her Ph.D. in Counseling Studies from Capella University. She is the Truancy Court Program Mentor for two Montgomery County schools and runs a weekly after-school character-building class at each school. She has worked in the human services field for 15 years, specializing in child and family counseling and early intervention services for children diagnosed with developmental disorders. She also has worked as a domestic violence counselor.

Sharon Rubinstein has a B.A. from Cornell University and a J.D. from the University of Michigan Law School. She is a Senior Fellow at CFCC, with TCP responsibilities that include leading the expansion effort in two new counties, editing the TCP e-newsletter, and coordinating the TCP at one Baltimore City school. She has been a fellow at the Public Justice Center, Communications Director at Advocates for Children and Youth, in private legal practice, and a journalist for broadcast and print media.

Jessica Stowell has a B.A. in English and French from Whittier College. She is a Truancy Court Program Coordinator for two Baltimore City and two Anne Arundel County schools. She also supervises the “Kids and Cameras” project. She has taught for four years in the Baltimore City Public Schools.