2007 Judge Solomon Liss Memorial Lecture:
A University of Baltimore Time Capsule From the Past 40 Years.

James Schneider, a member of the first UB School of Law full-time day class and now a judge for the U.S. Bankruptcy Court for the District of Maryland, will provide a retrospective on the School of Law that spans more than 40 years. Though he graduated in 1972, Schneider never really left UB behind. He has collected photos, memorabilia and anecdotes about the law school, and he is a scholar of the many advances in legal education. Please join us for this special event in honor of a great institution: the University of Baltimore School of Law.

The Judge Solomon Liss Memorial Lecture was established by the Liss family shortly after the judge’s death in 1988. He was one of the most distinguished graduates of the University of Baltimore School of Law and one of the most revered and beloved members of the school’s adjunct faculty. The lecture is used to present the views of outstanding legal scholars, judges and practitioners regarding important topics of interest to the School of Law faculty and to our distinguished guests.
