Spring Internships Still Available

It is not too late to secure an internship for the spring semester! Get hands on experience, strengthen your legal skills, and build professional connections in the community.

NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund
The NAACP Legal Department is seeking interns for the spring semester. Interns will be exposed to a variety of practice areas including trusts and estates, corporate governance, real estate, contracts, education, voting, employment, housing, and environmental justice.

U.S. Department of Education
Office of Innovation and Improvement is seeking spring interns. This is a great opportunity for students interested in public policy.

U.S. Senator Diane Feinstein
Senator Feinstein is seeking a spring law clerk for the Senate Judiciary office. Law clerks engage in a range of activities including attending hearings, conducting legal research, and drafting briefing memoranda.

ABA Death Penalty Moratorium Project
The Moratorium Project is looking for spring interns to conduct research on recent U.S. Supreme Court decisions bearing on the imposition of the death penalty, track legislation, and investigate specific capital punishment practices.

See page two for more opportunities.
