

UNIVERSITY OF BALTIMORE SCHOOL OF LAW
FALL 2017
SYLLABUS

Course: Family Law
Law 716
Section Numbers 511 and 511G

Instructor: Professor Margaret E. Johnson
410-837-5779; majohnson@ubalt.edu; Room 422
Office Hours: TBD and by appointment

Days/Time: Mondays and Wednesdays 10:30-11:45 a.m.

Location: As of 07/27/2017, the room is AL 603, but this room is subject to change so please check the room assignment through MyUB at the beginning of the semester.

Course Description:

This course will explore legal issues relating to the formation, maintenance, and dissolution of family relationships. These issues include state and federal regulation of marriage and nonmarital cohabitation; legal, social, and economic consequences of marriage and divorce; parentage, custody, and support of children; domestic violence; and the processes for resolving family disputes. The course includes related constitutional issues.

Course Materials:

1. Douglas E. Abrams, Naomi R. Cahn, Catherine J. Ross, David D. Meyer, and Linda C. McClain, Contemporary Family Law (4th Ed. LEG/West Academic 2015).
2. TWEN. Each student is required to register for the course's TWEN website.

All reading assignments are in the Contemporary Family Law casebook, except where supplemental reading is noted. We will make extensive use of the course TWEN site as well. Supplemental materials, such as Maryland statutes and cases, will be available on TWEN. Please make sure to check the TWEN site regularly for course materials.

Student Learning Outcomes:

1. Students will be able to explain the key concepts of family law, including antenuptial and post-nuptial agreements, paternity and parental rights, adoption, reproductive technologies, marriage, divorce grounds and property distribution, annulment, alimony, domestic violence, child custody, de facto parenthood and third party custody, and child support and analyze and synthesize those concepts, from case law, statutes and theory, and apply them to a variety of factual situations;
2. Students will be able to give examples of the state's role in constructing what is and is not a family;
3. Students will be able to critically analyze the law and legal systems;
4. Students draft a complaint for divorce and engage in negotiations relating to child custody, visitation and child support law;
5. Students will identify and evaluate the role of lawyers and clients in creating the law of families.

Grades:

You will be evaluated based on your performance on the final exam and the three experiential projects. If your class participation is of a consistently high quality, you may receive an increase in your final grade. If your class participation is of a consistently poor quality, you may receive a decrease in your final grade.

1. 55% of your final course grade will be based on a final in-class, closed-book, three-hour exam. The exam will consist of long and short-answer essay questions. I will hold an optional review session for the final examination. The rubric for grading the exam is on TWEN.

2. 45% of your grade will be based on three experiential learning projects:

(a) Project #1: A court observation of family law court, domestic violence court or a family law appeal and written memorandum (15%);

(b) Project #2: The drafting of a divorce complaint (15%);

(c) Project #3: Negotiation of a child custody, visitation, and child support dispute (15%).

There are more instructions provided on TWEN about each of these projects. Each of the written portions of the projects needs to be submitted to me through the drop box on TWEN. Submit your project assignments to the "Drop Box" on TWEN by each assignment's deadline. Project #1 (Court observation) is due no later than 5:00 p.m. on November 15, 2017. Project #2 (Divorce complaint) is due no later than November 29, 2017, at 5:00 p.m. Project #3 (Negotiation Memo) is due no later than December 1, 2017, at 5:00 p.m. Please note that I have canceled two classes, on September 25, 2017, and October 16, 2017, in consideration of the out-of-class time you will need to spend on the courtroom observation and the other projects.

Course Expectations:

Amount of out-of-class work

American Bar Association Standards for Law Schools establish guidelines for the amount of work students should expect to complete for each credit earned. Students should expect approximately one hour of classroom instruction and two hours of out-of-class work for each credit earned in a class, or an equivalent amount of work for other academic activities, such as simulations, externships, clinical supervision, co-curricular activities, and other academic work leading to the award of credit hours.

Class assignments

Students are expected to complete the reading assignments from the text and supplemental materials, to attend each class on time, and to participate in class discussions of readings and problems. Bring to every class your text and access to supplemental material. Consistently active class participation, demonstrating that you have read and thought about the issues raised in the assignment, is expected.

Seating Chart, Class Discussion, Professionalism

I will distribute a seating chart on the first day of class. Please sign the chart in the place where you intend to sit all semester. Please sit in your seating chart place for each class. This will help me put your name and face together.

My goal for class discussion is for the class to benefit from everyone taking class preparation seriously. At the same time, I do not wish to cause participation anxiety. I will use a set of index cards with your name on them for randomly selecting students on which to call each class. This method of calling on students ensures that everyone has an opportunity to speak in class and share their thinking on family law, as well as be evaluated for participation. I understand that due to extenuating circumstances, you may not be able to be adequately prepared for a class, despite your best efforts. If that happens, please email me at least 30 minutes before that class and ask that I not call on you. I also expect and provide an opportunity for volunteering students to participate in the class discussion. As long as you have adequately prepared, I encourage you to take the risk of participating, even if you haven't always fully thought out your opinions or arguments, as well as to express opinions even (or especially) when they are not shared by others in the class.

Finally, please conduct yourself as a professional at all times in the classroom. Please be in your seat before class begins and throughout the class unless you have an exigent circumstance. Please turn off your cell phones, and please refrain from using your computer for anything other than taking notes or accessing the web for materials related to that day's class. My goal is to create a classroom that is conducive to learning for everyone.

Attendance:

Class attendance is a primary obligation of each student whose right to continued enrollment in the course and to take the examination is conditioned upon a record of attendance satisfactory to the professor. A student who exceeds the maximum allowed absences (generally 20% of class sessions) as illustrated below may be compelled to withdraw from the course, or may be barred from sitting for the final exam. Students who are forced to withdraw for exceeding the allowed absences may receive a grade of FA (failure due to excessive absence). This policy is consistent with American Bar Association Standards for Law Schools.

Regular Semester Hours
Credit Hours	Meetings Per Week
	1	2
2	2 absences	5 absences
3	2 absences	5 absences
4	--	5 absences

The official record of your attendance is the class sign in sheet. I will send around a sign in sheet at the beginning of each class and then another at the beginning of each class after the break. You are eligible to sign in as attending the class if you are present and prepared to participate in class no later than 10 minutes after the start of class and stay for the entire class period.

Course Website:

This course has a TWEN page that links to this syllabus, announcements, the class assignments, and other class materials. You are responsible for self-enrolling in the TWEN page and for checking it regularly for course information.

Computers:

Students may use laptop computers for class related purposes only.

Class Cancellation:

If the instructor must cancel a class, notices will be sent to students via email and posted on the classroom door. If there is inclement weather, students should visit the University of Baltimore web site or call the University's Snow Closing Line at (410) 837-4201. If the University is open, students should presume that classes are running on the normal schedule.

Academic Integrity:

Students are obligated to refrain from acts that they know or, under the circumstances, have reason to know will impair the academic integrity of the University and/or School of Law. Violations of academic integrity include, but are not limited to: cheating, plagiarism, misuse of materials, inappropriate communication about exams, use of unauthorized materials and technology, misrepresentation of any academic matter, including attendance, and impeding the Honor Code process. The School of Law Honor Code and information about the process is available at http://law.ubalt.edu/academics/policiesandprocedures/honor_code/.

Title IX Sexual Misconduct and Nondiscrimination Policy:

The University of Baltimore states that its Sexual Misconduct and Nondiscrimination policy is compliant with Federal laws prohibiting discrimination. Title IX requires that faculty, student employees and staff members report to the university any known, learned or rumored incidents of sex discrimination, including sexual harassment, sexual misconduct, stalking on the basis of sex, dating/intimate partner violence or sexual exploitation and/or related experiences or incidents. Policies and procedures related to Title IX and UB's nondiscrimination policies can be found at: <http://www.ubalt.edu/titleix>.

Disability Policy:

If you are a student with a documented disability who requires an academic accommodation, please contact Leslie Metzger, Director of Student Services, at 410-837-5623 or lmetzger@ubalt.edu.
